I am a Coos County citizen who walks our big, black and white dog Carly, daily on the shores of Coos Bay. The construction of the Jordan Cove Pipeline will not only destroy the beach where I walk, but destroy the peaceful view of fishermen in their boats, birds bobbing on the water, and the occasional kayaker making their way down the shoreline.

Not only will I lose this recreational outlet, but the Simpson Heights neighborhood in which I live will be subjected to the noise and pollution created by the Jordan Cove project. The pollution will never end-we are downwind. The pipeline comes up at the end of Ferry Road and circles around popular Ferry Road Park, then goes underneath the historic McCullough Bridge.

Our property values will plummet. ( but I doubt our taxes will).

Should something go wrong, like an explosion, this neighborhood, park, and the bridge carrying Highway 101 vehicles will be destroyed. Everyone and everything. Do you want to be responsible should this horror occur?

Prostituting our County for the transient enrichment of the few is not worth the permanent destruction of our bay, property, or health.

Return to your moral and ethical roots. Deny this permit.
